ORTHOPAEDIC SECOND OPINIONS

When faced with a diagnosis that could require orthopaedic surgery, patients may want to consider a second opinion.

USC Orthopaedic Surgery at Keck Medicine of USC provides the opportunity for patients to consult with expert surgeons who truly specialize in a specific area of the body. This focus sets USC Orthopaedic Surgery apart, and is just one piece of the comprehensive care patients receive at Keck Medicine. Patients who seek a second opinion at Keck Medicine will have access to the latest cutting-edge techniques, such as minimally invasive surgery, novel pain management strategies and advanced rehabilitation services, so they can return to an active lifestyle.

DO YOU NEED A SECOND OPINION?

Getting a second opinion can provide you with important information, another perspective about the treatment of your condition and peace of mind for you and your family. With specialized training in specific fields — such as sports medicine, total joint replacement, hip preservation, spine, foot and ankle, fractures and tumors — and expertise in treating both simple and complex conditions, the nationally renowned orthopaedic surgeons at Keck Medicine of USC will give you expert guidance when:

- Your questions regarding surgery and the treatment plan have not been satisfactorily answered
- Your goals are different than your current surgeon's goals — you would prefer surgery as a last option
- A previous surgery was not successful and you need a second procedure
- There is a new technique that your current surgeon does not offer
